WOULD CHANGE FISHING LAWS

FISHERMEN AND RESORT OWNERS DISCUSS PROBLEMS AT RECREATION CLUB.

A large enthusiastic crowd gathered at the Recreation club on the AuSable, Saturday night, where an informal discussion was held over the matter of trout fishing and the welfare of the AuSable river and its branches. The living room of the club was filled to overflowing. Almost every club house and summer home along the Main stream was well represented, as was also many similar interests located on the North and South branches, and in Grayling.

The meeting was called at the instigation of Marius Hanson, president of Grayling Fish Hatchery club, and one of the most active devotees for the conservation of the trout in that line. Commissioner John Baird of the Department of Conservation was present and listened to the discussions and suggestions offered and advised with the delegates.

George L. Alexander of Grayling acted as chairman of the meeting. Herbert W. Wolff was secretary. Among the several matters talked about was, how to do away with the natural enemies of the trout; the planting of and best specie of trout for these rivers; limit of size and number that may be taken in one day and the number in possession, and the time of open season.

Pike, it was decided, should be destroyed and a motion was carried that Commissioner Baird appoint 25 special game wardens, empowered to spear pike in the rivers, and that the said wardens may be assisted by others whom they may invite for that purpose. This motion was unanimously supported.

The proposition to limit the size of trout to eight inches also met with hearty accord. A catch of 15 in a day and 25 in possession seemed also to meet with general approval, although there were many who wanted ten in one day.

There were several strong advocates for closing the AuSable in certain zones for a whole season, however this was voted down. The idea of setting aside a number of small creeks tributary to the AuSable river as nursery streams where trout fry should be planted and allowed to grow unmolested was unanimously adopted.

Those living and owning property along the Main stream were strong for the planting of Brown trout in that stream and Commissioner Baird assured them that this would be done. These fish seem to be on the increase and are expected to replace the brook trout that seem to be on a fair way to join the grayling that at one time thrived in that stream and are now extinct there.

A motion to open the fishing season May 15th was passed.

Commissioner Baird suggested that a meeting of all persons interested in these matters be called, representing the counties of Crawford, Roscommon, Oscoda, Otsego, and Kalamazoo, and be held in Grayling in the near future where these matters that were passed upon, be presented and acted upon. Due and timely notice of such meeting will be given so that all who are interested may avail themselves of the opportunity to be present.

CHICAGO GIANTS TRIM GRAYLING SECOND TIME.

The Chicago Colored Giants took the second game of the season from Grayling last Sunday, defeating them by a score of 11 to 7. The teams were pretty evenly matched, each side registering 14 hits, but Grayling had more errors. Some pretty hits were made, Nelson and "Dago" Laurant for Grayling getting a triple each. DeLuff of East Jordan was hired by a number of Grayling admirers for the game and played third sack. Charles Carney of the University of Illinois, a guest of Herbert W. Wolff and family was in the line-up holding down second base. With two hits and handling every chance that came his way he made a hit with the fans. Laurent and Johnson were the battery for Grayling and Gill and Somthing for the negroes.

CRAWFORD COUNTY EXHIBITS AT BAY CITY FAIR.

Crawford county is represented at the Bay City fair this week with a fine display of agricultural products. The exhibit is in charge of Supervisor Oliver B. Scott of South Branch and William G. Feldhauser of Maple Forest, who say they have a fine lot of varieties, including wheat, rye, bagas, turnips, corn, cucumbers, carrots, beets, apples and the beautiful lot of potatoes that were ever exhibited.

Considering the backward season Crawford County may well be proud of the exhibit it is presenting at this fair.

M. N. G. PRAISED BY GROESBECK

THE GOV. PROMISES GRAYLING THAT STATE WILL IMPROVE THE CAMP.

A sewerage system, new roads and an assembly hall for enlisted men are improvements which the State should provide for Camp Grayling within the next few years. Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck declared last week Tuesday, after an entire day's inspection of the encampment.

The Governor said that the Legislature had cut appropriations for the camp as far as possible since the war, but that improvements could be pushed more rapidly now.

Brig. Gen. Guy M. Wilson's policy of gradually developing Camp Grayling, without expending large sums of money at any one time, is a worthy one, the Governor stated.

Praises Troops.

"I am in favor of any steps necessary to keep the Michigan National Guard on an equal footing with the militia of other states," he asserted. "The guard is the backbone of our national defense and the best avenue through which the country can keep prepared."

The Governor praised the appearance of the troops and the condition of the camp and also praised General Wilson and his staff.

"The Michigan National Guard ranks higher today than ever before," he said. "This is due largely to the splendid service of the veterans of the World War who are back in the harness to give the enlisted men the benefit of their training."

The Governor had a busy day at the camp. The review of troops was one of the most impressive ever staged at Grayling. It was the first time in years that a Michigan commander-in-chief had visited the annual encampment and the officers had their men at their best for the Governor's inspection.

Alex Out of Uniform. Although the Governor fell into the spirit of his military surroundings and did his best to appear like a trained soldier, his uniform was in marked contrast to the others, especially the carefully chosen clothing of the ranking officers. The Governor on his arrival in camp found a soldier's hat and breeches that he could wear but throughout his visit here he wore his business coat.

HEART TROUBLE.

Heart Trouble may be of various kinds and affects people of all ages and in all walks of life. It is one of the most common diseases of the present day and one that is calculated to give the patient the greatest concern. The Heart action is controlled by the nerve force that reaches it from the brain, over certain Nerve trunks. If this force is not reaching the Heart in the amount that is necessary for perfect action, disease develops. The Chiropractor removes the pressure that interferes with the full supply of Nerve Energy and Nature then brings about the greatest degree of restoration that is possible. Chiropractic gets results. FINAL PLEAS MADE FOR LEOPOLD-LOEB

DEFENSE ATTORNEY DARROW IN TEARS AS HE BEGS MERCY FOR MURDERERS

ASKS LIFE PRISON SENTENCE

Judge Caverly Announces His Decision Will Be Given Not Later Than September 8th.

Chicago—Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, concluded his three-day appeal for mercy before Chief Justice John R. Caverly, of the criminal court with a plea to save Illinois from the "shame and disgrace" of hanging a 19-year-old boy and an 18-year-old boy.

He pleaded for a sentence of life imprisonment for the two murderers.

Tears came to his eyes as he begged the court to spare their lives.

Character analysis based on heredity and environment was the theme of the master defense attorney as he pleaded before Judge Caverly for the lives of Loeb and Leopold, Jr., co-kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks.

The veteran of the American bar went back of the crime itself, to trace from childhood the influences which had surrounded his clients. The effects of these, he acknowledged, could not be told with certainty, but limits of human knowledge were blamed for that. Wealth, he said, was one big reason for their mad act.

Judge Caverly announced that his decision on the case would be given not later than September 8. The jurist said he would go to Atlantic City, N. J., to deliberate.

THREE KILLED IN PISTOL DUEL

Two Policemen and Robber Die in Attempted Burglary.

Marquette, Mich.—In a pistol duel, Martin Ford, chief of police, Thomas Thornton, a patrolman, and Oscar Lampl, a robber, were killed and Lloyd Ford, a patrolman was fatally wounded.

Thornton discovered Lampl trying to open a window to get into Beucher's drug store. Upon being ordered to throw up his hands Lampl fled, opening fire while he ran and fatally wounded Thornton.

Chief Ford, with patrolman Walter Tippet and Lloyd Ford took up the chase which led to the banks of the Chocoyay river where Lampl again opened fire killing Chief Ford and fatally wounding Lloyd Ford, after which he jumped into the river to escape but was killed by patrolman Tippet while swimming away.

DAWES AND DAVIS RAKE KLAN

Say Racial and Religious Prejudice Has No Place in Campaign.

Augusta, Me.—General Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice-president, at the rally here of Maine Republicans, said appeals to racial, religious or class prejudice by minority organizations are opposed to the welfare of all peaceful and civilized communities.

Speaking to a gathering of Republicans at Island Park, Mr. Dawes departed from his prepared address to make the first formal reply to the challenge issued by John W. Davis that the Republican standard bearer also condemn the Klan.

But, like Mr. Davis, the Republican vice-presidential candidate expressed the very firm belief that the Klan issue "has no proper part in this or any other campaign."

FLORENCE MCKINNEY RELEASED

Alleged Accomplice in Murder of Cora Rober Out on Bail.

St. Joseph, Mich.—Florence McKinney, 19-year-old girl, held for second degree slaying in connection with the death of Cora Rober, who was choked to death, it is alleged, by Florence's sweetheart, Emil Zupke, was released from the county jail here on bonds of $5,000 furnished by her relatives, who are Royalton Township farmers.

Justice Ray Davis reduced the charge against Miss McKinney from first to second degree slaying. Zupke is under arrest for first degree slaying.

The McKinney girl was taken home by her father to await trial in the September term of Circuit court.

INCREASE IN DETROIT VOTERS

Registration Certificates Issued To Over 330,000.

Detroit—Thirty thousand more Detroit citizens are qualified by registration to vote at the September primaries this year than at the same election in 1920, the year of last general election, according to announcement of the city election commission.

A final statistical check shows that during the re-registration period certificates were issued to 330,048 persons, including 212,607 men and 117,441 women. The 1920 total was 300,068.

SCHOOL BEGINS TUES., SEPT. 2

ENROLLMENT OF OVER 600 EXPECTED. MANY NEW TEACHERS HIRED.

The Grayling schools will begin Tuesday, September 2. Everything about the premises is ready for the big day. An enrollment of more than 600 is expected, with about 250 of these in the high school. Supt. E. E. Smith says he believes they will have the best teaching force this school has ever had. The teachers are as follows:

B. E. Smith, Supt., Grayling, U. of M.
Cecile Harris, Prin., Marion, Western State Normal, Kalamazoo.
Louise Hainline, Mathematics, Alma, Alma college.
Hazel Shankel, French and Latin, Alma, Alma college.
Mabel Fox, History and science, Grand Rapids, U. of M.
Eleanor Thomas, commercial, Williamson, Michigan State Normal, Ypsilanti.
Mary E. Sharpe, English, Saginaw Park college.
J. K. Burnham, mathematics and physical training, St. Louis, Central State Normal, Mt. Pleasant.
Erma Turcott, physical training, Houghton, Central State Normal, Mt. Pleasant.

Mae Richardson, 2nd grade, Roscommon, Michigan State Normal.
Michael Bates, 1st grade, Grayling Michigan State Normal.
Ruth Gregory, kindergarten, East Jordan, Michigan State Normal.
Katherine Proud, 1st grade, South Side, Alma, Central State Normal.
Erma Gothro, 2nd and 3rd grades, South Side, Grayling, Central State Normal.

CHOOSE YOUR CANDIDATE.

The voters of the state will have the time of their lives in making their selection for the republican nomination for governor at the coming election. There are seven candidates in the field and out of this number every voter should be able to find his ideal. Here is the list, so take your choice.

Herbert Baker, Wadock.
Alex J. Groesbeck, Detroit.
James Hamilton, Detroit.
Frederick A. Perry, Adrian.
Wm. Potter, Hastings.
Thomas Read, Shelby.
Charles R. Sligh, Grand Rapids.
For lieutenant governor there are five candidates for the nomination on the republican ticket, Leonard Coyne, Detroit; Luren D. Dickinson, Charlotte; George McArthur, Eaton Rapids; Franklin Moore, St. Clair; and George Welsh, Grand Rapids.

In the contest for the nomination for United States Senator, for full term, there are four candidates, James Couzens, Detroit; Hal H. Smith, Detroit; Daniel W. Tussing, Lansing; and Arthur J. Tuttle, Detroit.

In the primaries, Hon. Roy O. Woodruff of Bay City will be opposed for the nomination for Representative to Congress by George Lusk, former postmaster of Bay City. In the twenty-eighth district, H. S. Karcher of Rose City who is seeking re-election as State Senator will contest for nomination with Wesley Chase of Rose City and Arthur G. Firth of Arenac county.

For representation in the legislature, Presque Isle district, Nelson G. Farrier, Republican, is unopposed.

In three county offices there promises to be a lively battle. On the Republican ticket, George Sorenson, for judge of probate, has no opposition.

Clarence Johnson, who filed petition for county clerk, is going to have opposition from Herbert J. Smith, Jr. who is out to get the nomination on slips. Mr. Smith is the husband of Isa Granger, and recently came here from Milford. Edwin S. Chalker, county treasurer, for re-nomination will be opposed by Efner Matson. William H. Cody and Jess E. Bobenmoyer will fight it out for nomination for sheriff. Prosecuting Attorney is unopposed for that office. There are no candidates for register of deeds, coroner nor surveyor on the Republican ticket.

On the Democratic ticket there are no contests whatsoever, only on petition having been filed for any of the national, congressional, state, district and county offices, as follows:

For U. S. senator, full term and vacancy terms, Mortimer E. Cooley, for governor, Edward Frensdorff, for lieutenant governor, Michael J. Doyle, for congress, Judson E. Richardson, for sheriff Peter F. Jorgenson, for clerk, Frank Sales, for treasurer, Walmer Jorgenson, and for register of deeds, Andrew Hart.

There are three more tickets in the field which probably will be of little interest to the local voters, Socialist, Labor, and Prohibition. These have candidates for governor, lieutenant governor and U. S. senator only.

Primary election will be held Tuesday, September 9th.

Byron McCandless, athletic officer at Annapolis, Md., will from now on be known as director of athletics due to an order issued by Rear Admiral H. B. Wilson, head of the academy. He will have assistants, who will be in charge of the different sports.

Wilding Was Tennis Star

Frederick Wilding, known to the present generation as the father of Anthony Wilding, famous Australian tennis player, is watching the season's matches. The elder Wilding is now seventy-three. The younger Wilding is dead. At the height of his tennis career he entered the World War and went to his death on the battlefield.

His father was, in his day, equally as great, perhaps, as a tennis player. He was a member of the New Zealand doubles championship team five times. He attended college in England and was a champion broad jumper and marksman while in college.

Heydler Picks Giants

The Giants are likely to crash through this season for their fourth successive pennant, in the opinion of John A. Heydler, president of the National league. Heydler said McGraw seemed to have a team just as formidable as that which flew the National pennant from the masthead in 1923.

Sports Good for Women

Among the sports recommended for women are: Golf, tennis, swimming, basketball, baseball, soccer, hockey, fencing and modified track and field sports. Women, according to instructors of athletics, should not take up wrestling, boxing, putting the shot, pole vaulting and tugs-of-war.

Manager Doyle Had Enough Foreigners

In Milwaukee they are still telling one on Jack Doyle, once manager of the Brewers, and now scout for the Cubs. It was at the time that Ed Konetchy was just beginning to attract attention in the minors. Koney was playing first for La Crosse in the old Wisconsin-Illinois league and was looking more like big league timber every day.

Some one tipped off the late Charley Havenor, at that time owner of the Brewers, that this fellow Konetchy looked like a corner and could be purchased for $750 from La Crosse.

"What's his name?" asked Doyle of Havenor. It so happened that the owner was not sure on the pronunciation of Koney's name and got his tongue tangled up.

"That's enough," shrieked Doyle to his boss, "we've got enough of them foreigners on the team now."

Of course we all know Ed as a fine American-born athlete of Bohemian extraction and we also know that he was one of the leading hitters of the majors for a long time.

Schalk Discovers Star

Ted Lyons, depleted here, was working with the Baylor university team at Waco, Texas, when Ray Schalk, first-string backstop of the Chicago White Sox, stopped off to watch the athletes perform. As a result Lyons is now a winning twirler for the Chicago team.

NOTES FROM THE DIAMOND

The average baseball life of a player in a big league is from four to sixteen years.

Pitcher Ed Clough of Fort Smith has been laid up with malaria. The big fellow lost 15 pounds during his illness.

A dictionary with 5,000 new words is on the market and the umpires are hoping Tris Speaker hasn't heard about it.

George Whitted, veteran major leaguer, is managing and playing fine ball with the Independent team at Mt. Carmel, Pa.

Pedro Dibat, Cuban pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, who was farmed out to the Florida league early this season, will be recalled.

Buck Frazier, who is supposed to belong to the Chicago White Sox, has been transferred to the Quebec team since the disbandment of the Rutland outfit.

Infielder Bandimer has been obtained by Galveston from Chattanooga of the Southern league. President Kelso has a scout out looking for additional talent.

Norman Peterson, an outfielder, recently obtained from the Pittsburgh National League club, was given his unconditional release by the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast league.

Jess Haines of the Cardinals in pitching the first no-hit game of the season in the major leagues, is credited with being the first moundman of the Cardinals to turn the trick since 1876.

Verne Lewellen, 1923 baseball captain at Nebraska university, and Everett Purdy, third baseman for the Beatrice (Neb.) Tri-State league club, have reported to the Lincoln Western league team.

Brooklyn has one of the strongest pitching staffs in the big leagues. His name is Arthur Vance.

Benny Benford, outfielder for the Austin (Tex.) association club, has been sold to the New York Yankees.

After hitting safely in 28 consecutive games, First Baseman Lindsey of the Montreal Royals was stopped by Pat Grenier of the Canadians.

Blake Harper, president of the Fort Smith club, is said to be making a strong bid for the nomination for sheriff of Sebastian county, Arkansas.

Gus Bono, former Kansas City pitcher, who has retired from the game, is in the garage and accessory business with his father at Flat River, Mo.

Zack Wheat, the Brooklyn veteran, is thirty-eight years old, and hitting around .370. In other words, this particular Wheat is not yet ready to be shocked.

Earl Dunlap, left-handed pitcher recently released by the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league, has signed a contract to report to the New York Americans next spring.

Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, in his twentieth year in fast company, has the distinction of being the first major league player to rap out 100 hits this season.

Fred Jackson, twenty-year-old shortstop, who was purchased by the New Orleans club of the Southern association from Dubuque, Iowa, has been sold to the Cleveland Indians.

Galveston has sold Hal Disher to Houston for a cash consideration and an option on Pitcher Art Delaney for the remainder of the season. Disher recently was suspended by Galveston. Delaney belongs to the St. Louis Cardinals.

BROUGHT HOME FROM MEXICO ON STRETCHER

But Mrs. Herman Is Now in Good Health, Thanks to Tanlac.

A few years ago Mrs. M. E. Herman, 215 Hitchings St., San Antonio, Texas, "returned to the states from Monterey, Mexico," she says, "in such a low state of health that she had to be carried to her home on a stretcher." As time went on and she still lingered in the throes of "Nerve exhaustion, stomach disorders and bodily weakness," she determined, "on the advice of her druggist," to try Tanlac, which she declares "brought back my health and strength after I had almost despaired of ever getting well."

The results of Tanlac in the case of Mrs. Herman, while indeed remarkable, are by no means unusual for Tanlac, as many hundreds of people everywhere have testified to having taken the famous medicine with no less wonderful results.

"I returned from Mexico," said Mrs. Herman, "so thin and weak that I feared my life was going to be cut short. I could neither eat or sleep in a natural way and it seemed at times that heart palpitation and nerve exhaustion would take me away."

"The makers of Tanlac will always have my heartfelt thanks, for it is to Tanlac that I attribute my recovery and present good health. Tanlac is like a blessing from heaven to me, that is the way I think about it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

ANY WAY TO GET IN.

It takes a skillful juggler to carry water on both shoulders and not spill it. It takes an experienced trickster to support Coolidge when he wants to get himself elected to congress on the Republican ticket and back up La Follette and the Democrats as soon as he gets into congress. Michigan has just such a man in Roy Woodruff, who is asking for a renomination for a third term from the Tenth congressional district. At Washington, Woodruff openly allied himself with the whole La Follette program. He prided himself on being the secretary of the La Follette organization whose avowed purpose was to control congress by an alliance with the Democrats. This brands him as against Coolidge and the Republican party and in favor of minority rule.

Woodruff's alliance with La Follette cannot be denied, either by himself or his friends. If anything more is needed than his acceptance of this La Follette secretaryship, his special activity for La Follette, and his open opposition to measures in which President Coolidge was especially interested, it is furnished by the fact that his name does not appear among the eighty three Republican congressmen singled out by La Follette for defeat. On the contrary, Woodruff has always proved himself the willing and compliant tool of La Follette and the complaisant helper of the Democrat party, in its plans against the Republican party. And now this political trickster who stands for one thing at home and another in Washington, is again attempting to get back into office under the Republican banner. If he gets there, what can reasonably be expected of him? Is there any reason to believe that he will stand by President Coolidge or the Republican platform or policies? On the contrary, as secretary of the La Follette bunch and as one of the Michigan congressmen O. K'ed by La Follette, will he not be under still greater obligation to serve those who oppose the President and the republican policies?

The Republicans of the Tenth district have a chance now to rid themselves of this misrepresentation and nominate a real Republican. George Lusk, former state representative, deputy secretary of state and a man of state-wide prominence, has consented to be a candidate. Every true Republican is interested in ridding congress of renegade Republicans like "Doc" Woodruff, who have nothing Republican about them except the vignetted under which their name is printed.

George Lusk is one of the most able men in the district for this place. He is popular in Bay City and it looks certain that he will clean up on "Doc" to the satisfaction of the district, the state and the nation.—Mount Pleasant Times.

EFFICIENT SERVICE.

O. B. Fuller, Michigan's most efficient auditor general, is a candidate for re-election and ought to be elected. Mr. Fuller has rendered conspicuous service to the state, devotes every working day to his task and has held down many questionable expenditures. The State of Michigan will be a large gainer by keeping Mr. Fuller on that job as long as he will accept the place and is able to perform the duties of the office. It is not a question of politics, but of exceptionally good service rendered.

"Who are you going to vote for governor?" is a question often asked and many times answered by the statement, "I don't know." That is a rather remarkable situation in a state like Michigan just a few days before the primary election. It shows no conspicuously marked trend toward any of the six candidates contending for the Republican nomination. The winner will be the choice of a small minority of the voters.

KEEPING PARTY PROMISES.

The Republican party has made a very good record in reducing government expenses. It will make a still further reduction if President Coolidge is re-elected, as seems probable, and is supported by a Republican congress. Look well to the men you send to congress. Weaklings and wabblers are of little account.

A TEXT FOR SERMONS.

To clergymen who have been over zealous in their pacifist warfare on American preparedness, the following text from St. Luke is suggested: "When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace. If the good man of the house had known what hour the thief would come, he would have watched, and not suffered his house to be broken through. Be ye therefore ready."

FREDERIC NEWS.

Albert Lewis and wife and mother have returned from a family reunion at Freeland. Imagine the surprise of Mrs. Pledger on going to the cellar for canned goods, just as John Parsons was going away from home in a hurry, John not knowing she was in the cellar locked all the doors, fastening her securely. Her ingenuity was all that got her out before John returned late in the afternoon. Miss Gladys Dearth returned to her home in Marion, Ohio, last week. Mrs. Pledger is enjoying a vacation in Detroit.

She is now on her way to Montreal to visit another sister she has not seen in 44 years.

The lawn fete and cedar chest sale given by the Altar society of St. Mary's church proved to be one of the most successful affairs this society ever undertook, it netting the ladies the very handsome sum of $628.00. The lawn fete took place last Thursday evening on the parsonage lawn and there was a fine large crowd in attendance. There were flowers and candy booths and the grounds were tastefully decorated, giving it a most inviting air. Sandwiches, red hot, fried cakes, cake and coffee were served to those who wished. The various committees put forth every effort to make the affair a success and they were well repaid. Jerry Sherman was awarded the cedar chest, which was filled with beautiful home made things of linen, and fancy work, that most any lady would be delighted in owning. The ladies of St. Mary's church are to be congratulated upon their progressiveness and the fine success they had.

Conrad Sorenson is under arrest, charged with transporting and selling intoxicating liquor. Saturday night the complaint was made by one of the officers of the military camp, who caught him with a quart of moonshine in his car. Sorenson is bound over to circuit court for trial. The detection of Sorenson came when it is reported that he sold moonshine to three young men of the 132nd Artillery which made them very sick and it is said by the officers that one of them nearly died from the effects of the dope. All three were walked all night to keep them alive. One of the boys was only 18 years old and all under 21. Col. Pickert says it was only because he didn't care to send any of his boys back to their parents a corpse that such strenuous efforts were made to keep them alive. "They should have known better than to drink such dope." It appears to be the general opinion among the officers that Sorenson has been selling booze for a number of years but that he was so slippery that they couldn't catch him. He is out on $500 bail.

Tree Planting
A request from the American Tree Planting association for the name of the "champion tree planter" in each state is a reminder of the great growth of the arboricultural movement in the United States since 1897. The American Tree association says that it has enrolled 70,000 registered tree planters, but this is far from constituting our tree planting strength. The effort to establish avenues of shade along the principal highways is participated in by many individuals and by hundreds of local organizations.

The association meanwhile furthers an excellent undertaking by publishing instructions on tree planting that the veriest novice can understand.—Portland Oregonian.

Fiddling Work!
A certain young New Zealander, six or seven years old, is very inquisitive. One day he was asking how things came to be here: "Mother, who made me?" The mother replied, "God."

"Who made the horses and cows?" "God."

"And who made the elephants?" "Why, God, of course!"

A long pause, then: "Well, did God make flies?"

"Why, yes, my son!"

"Humph!" said the boy. "Fiddling work, flies!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Strange Tree Fatality
Ored Maltinax, twenty-one years old rancher, was killed recently at Libby, Mont., by an unusual accident. He felled a tree, which struck a second tree, which fell and hit a third. The third tree took down a fourth, which fell on the man, killing him. The trees stood in a circle.

HERBERT J. SMITH JR.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I wish to announce to the voters of Crawford County; That I have definitely entered the race for the office of County Clerk on the Republican ticket. Owing to a misunderstanding on my part my petition was not filed in time for my name to be placed on the Ballot. Therefore it will be necessary for the voters who desire to cast their vote for me in the Primaries to affix a slip with my name printed on it in the vacant space on the ballot and make the usual X in front of same. A sufficient number of these slips will be distributed before election to all registered voters of this County.

Thanking you in advance for your support, I remain,
Yours sincerely,

E. B. Biddlecombe. Both the bride and the groom were born in Maple Forest township, and the groom's parents still reside there. The newlyweds enjoyed part of their honeymoon visiting at their childhood home.

One item inadvertently overlooked last week and which was so nicely contributed by one of the Grangers was the report of the Grange picnic, which was held at the home of Charles Corwin in Pere Cheney. From reports it must have been a great affair. During the afternoon there were sports and games, everyone both old and young joining in the fun. Mr. Ming of Cheboygan was the speaker of the day and it is said he gave a most interesting talk giving out some valuable information in the interest of farmers and taxpayers. In the evening there was a dance and a large crowd from Grayling, Roscommon and other nearby places were in attendance. From reports there wasn't a dull moment during the whole day, but it is said folks always have a good time at the Charley Corwin farm home.

Anyone having old clothes, shoes or stockings or other wearing apparel they will be willing to part with is requested to send it in and good use will be made of it. A supply is needed at once. The place will be open from 2 to 4 o'clock each afternoon and also at other times.

County Agricultural Agent R. D. Bailey writes from Ford hospital, Detroit, that he could not prepare his article for this week on Science and the Farm, a series of which subject is appearing each week in the Farm Bureau Notes column. However he sent a short article that will be printed instead. No doubt Mr. Bailey would be pleased to receive a cheery note from some of his friends, who may address him, Room 419, Section B, Ford Hospital, Detroit.

The second annual picnic of the Ladies National League and the N. L. Veterans and Sons, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clise Sunday afternoon. About 25 members sat down to a delicious "Pot Luck" supper, arranged on tables in a grove near their home, which had been cleared and decorated for the occasion. Although a "Pot Luck" Mrs. Clise arranged many a delicious dish extra for her visitors. Ice cream and lemonade were sold for the benefit of the lodge. It was regretted that so many of our members were unable to attend, to help enjoy the eats and the picturesqueness of the grove.

Mrs. Rosa Lietzau, John Scherurer and Marie Collister of Lansing are spending the week with Mrs. Lietzau's sister Mrs. Hugo Schrieber, Sr.

Miss Mildred Corwin will leave sometime this week for Lansing, where she has accepted a position in one of the public schools of that city.

Kenneth Gothro entertained 12 of his young boy friends at his home yesterday afternoon to celebrate his ninth birthday anniversary. A pretty birthday cake adorned the lunch table.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stutz of Ann Arbor have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Darveau this week.

Mrs. Martha McMaisters has purchased the Mrs. Rose Balhoff house on Park street, near Lake street. This will be occupied by Fred Belmore and family, who are moving to town so that their children may attend school.

Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Insley and Francis Reegan of Detroit arrived in the city the latter part of the week, joining the former's mother, Mrs. Insley, Miss Margaret and Marius, who are enjoying a sojourn on the AuSable, occupying one of the cottages near Goodard's resort. They are also visiting at the Robert Reegan home and with friends.

Reports coming from Bay City claim that George Lusk will carry Bay County with a good majority over Roy Woodruff for congress. Everywhere the trend is to oust the old congress and put in men who can work constructively instead of destructively. The people at home haven't forgotten the "accomplish nothing" bunch in congress during the present session.

C. J. Hathaway, optometrist of Pontiac, arrived in Grayling Wednesday and is at his old stand in the Gift Shop for three days, August 28, 29 and 30, coming to look after the eye needs of many of his old patrons in Grayling and vicinity. Although going to Pontiac over three years ago, he has made regular visits to Grayling, and a fine patronage always awaits him here on each visit. Mr. Hathaway was accompanied by his son Milton and his brother, Arthur Hathaway of Oxford and the party enjoyed a four-day auto trip, taking a roundabout way to Grayling.

The funeral of Mrs. S. S. Phelps, Jr. of Detroit was held last Thursday afternoon with services in the Danish-Lutheran church and was attended by a large number of sorrowing relatives and friends of the bereaved family. Rev. Kjolhede opened the service with prayer, and a chaplain from the military reservation delivered the funeral sermon. Mrs. Roy Milnes beautifully rendered several hymns and was accompanied by Mrs. Ella Smith at the organ. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery. Accompanying Mr. Phelps and his daughters to Grayling for the funeral were Emil Hanson and family and Magnus Hanson of Detroit. Mrs. Robert Lamont of Bay City and Mr. and Mrs. George Durby of Flint were also in attendance.

Twenty-five years ago August 18 Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Corwin were wed, and in honor of the occasion their children arranged a celebration in their honor. Pretty invitations edged with silver were mailed to a large number of friends and fifty guests responded and gathered at the Corwin home Tuesday evening of last week. The guests were entertained with music, both instrumental and vocal, and part of the evening was spent in reminiscences of by-gone days. A lovely lunch was served the guests, the table being decorated with flowers. Mrs. Corwin before her marriage was Miss Myrtle Boyd of Virginia, and the happy couple were wed in Detroit, coming to Grayling where they have resided for many years. Mrs. Corwin was the recipient of many beautiful gifts in silver. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Spencer of Detroit and Mrs. T. Killingsworth of Chicago.

Michigan Happenings

Partly blinded by a battery explosion at a Richland garage, Harry Miller, 22 years old of Kalamazoo, will recover his sight, physicians announced. Miller was charging a battery, producing an unusual quantity of hydrogen gas from the solution. In the course of his work he made an inspection of the battery with an open flame, which ignited the gas, causing a blinding flash that burned his eyes and face and singed off a large part of his hair. Strong sulphuric acid thrown into his face caused additional burns.

The Western Papermakers Chemical company, of Kalamazoo, and the Tanglefoot company, of Grand Rapids, have joined in a suit in district court against the United States and the Interstate Commerce commission to enjoin the latter from enforcing certain freight rates on shipments of resin from points south of the Ohio river to this territory. The plaintiffs relate that the commission suspended the tariffs protested against, but substituted others just as objectionable. These new rates are now effective.

Miss Margaret M. Bailey of Muskegon, won first honors in Michigan in the national essay contest, "The Relation of Improved Highways on Home Life." The contest is being staged by H. S. Firestone, who offers a four-year university scholarship to the winner. Miss Bailey's essay has been sent to Washington as representing the best of the hundreds submitted from this state.

The four hundred acre Missaukee Preserve, on which are located the ancient Indian circles in Aetna Township near Lake City, is being cleared by University of Michigan authorities. Other earthworks in this vicinity are being sought by the university. Bird and game refuges will be made of them and the university scientists will study the remains.

Request has been made of the Interstate Commerce commission by the Detroit, Bay City & Western railroad company for permission to re-open its claim by reason of the property of the Port Huron & Detroit railroad, which it operated during the guaranty period. The sum of $10,201.80 was claimed as the minimum to which the carrier is entitled.

Mohammed Karoub of Detroit will have to stay in jail until his trial for the murder of Hussein Abbas, which probably will be early in the September term of court. Judge Guy A. Miller has ruled. He reduced Karoub's bail from $1,000,000, set by Justice Fred L. Keller, of Highland Park, to nothing, but ordered him held without bail.

Thirty-six men and five women at Lansing have designated themselves as the Independent Progressive party, named a state central committee of 30 members and endorsed Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin for president.

Playing with matches, the year-old daughters of Walter Matson, 4 and 6 years old, set the barn on fire on their father's farm in Almena township near Paw Paw, and were burned to death in the building.

Jay Slaughter and Lee Brockway, M. A. O. students, were drowned while swimming in Lake Michigan at Bridgman. Both were there conducting cow tests and studying the marketing of small fruits.

Diving from the top deck of the fishing tug Birmingham in Lake Huron, Dayton Dailey, of Detroit, saved 14-year-old Elizabeth Dawes, of Oscoda from drowning after she fell overboard.

Taking his first steps, the year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cutocher, of Armada, fell off the porch at his parents' home and was drowned in a wash boiler.

Albert Bruner of Union City, was instantly killed by an interurban car at the Ceresco crossing of the Michigan United Railway. He stopped his automobile on the tracks while his wife alighted to open a gate, and the rapidly approaching car was not visible.

John Mohl, 45 years old, of Grand Rapids, was fatally injured when thrown from his sulky when his horse, Sterling Hall, fell at the finish line in the 2:30 trot at the Holland Fair. His scalp was cut by the horse's hoof and his skull fractured, exposing the brain.

One of the most unusual livestock farms in Michigan is that of Fred J. Marshall, of Allen, who is preparing to specialize in the production of brook trout.

A contract amounting to approximately $400,000 has just been awarded by the public lighting commission of the city of Detroit to the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company for four two-unit substations. The substations will be used to supply power to the Detroit Street Railway and will be located at different switch stations as a part of the municipal system. Each of the new substations will contain two 2,000 kw 60 cycle railway converters and a bank of single phase, oil insulated, self-cooled 24,000 volt outdoor transformers for each converter.

Fred J. Russell, 83 years old, at his farm home just south of Hart, is dead. He was circuit judge of that district from 1881 to 1887 and again for two terms after 1900. He held all the county offices and was judge of probate nine years, delegate from the twenty-sixth district to the constitutional convention in 1907, president of the state bar association, a director for several years of the Michigan state fair, was an officer in banks at Hart and Muskegon and the West Michigan Agricultural and Industrial society of Grand Rapids.

The reading of class histories and prophecies of more than 40 years ago featured the "Old Girls' Picnic" held at Guernsey Park, at Hart. Mrs. Laura Collins Corbin, who gave the 1879 Class History once more stood before the graduates of those days and read again the same paper. Mrs. Emma Richmond Hutchins followed with her gratulating essay, "Three Pictures."

Mrs. George Stewart, diminutive balloonist making ascensions at Ramona Park this summer, provided an unexpected thrill to spectators when the second of two parachutes she out loose failed to open in time. She fell 300 feet above East Grand Rapids, but the parachute opened a short distance above the roof of a house and firemen rescued her.

Stealing huckleberries is not grand larceny, Judge Carl Blankenburg, of Kalamazoo, ruled in dismissing the case of Joseph Milon. Because Milon was alleged to have taken more than $25 worth of berries, the prosecutor made the warrant charge grand larceny. "You would have to prove he took the whole swamp," the court said.

There were two unique situations in connection with the Newway county teachers' examination at White Cloud. There is a candidate for a first grade certificate, the first in six years and the second in fifteen years. Also there are six more teachers than schools, a situation that has not been present since the war times.

The special election to vote on bonding the village of Hart for $62,500 for the erection of a dam on the Pentwater River to furnish electric power has been set for August 29. The balance of the amount deemed necessary, $127,500, is to be raised by the sale of bonds on the dam and distribution lines.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Dawes Plan Soon to Be in Operation—Vice Presidential Nominees Notified.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

UNLESS the extreme nationalists and monarchists of Germany and France have their way—and they probably will not—the Dawes plan for the regeneration of Germany and the general recovery of the world's prosperity will soon be in operation. The agreement signed by the delegates to the London conference must be confirmed by the parliaments of France and Germany, as it already has been approved by the cabinets of those countries. There is little danger of its rejection by the French, and Chancellor Marx has warned the German reichstag that if it does not give its approval it will be dissolved and an election called.

The opposition in Germany complains that the Germans "remain at the mercy of the French militarists and are the losers in the compromise." This is because it was agreed that the evacuation of the Ruhr need not be completed until one year from now and because of the fear that France will find some excuse for remaining in the occupied territory even longer. The French objectors to the agreement, on the other hand, assert that France has obtained many promises in London, but nothing tangible, while Germany has obtained visible, tangible advantages in the liberation of the Ruhr within a year and the immediate evacuation of some important centers in the Rhineland.

Premier Herriot, however, explains that the Dawes plan does not eliminate sanctions in case of bad faith, and declares: "We have re-established the interallied front in the event of Germany's failing to keep her engagements." As an earnest of his own good faith, M. Herriot withdrew all French troops from two Baden towns within two days after the signing of the pact.

In connection with the results of the London conference a situation has arisen in England that is unprecedented. Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden, without resigning from the cabinet, has come out with a severe criticism of the work of the conference. He warns British traders and manufacturers of the danger to them in the proposed Franco-German commercial treaty, and also attacks the policy of permitting the French to remain another year in the Ruhr. Snowden's attack angered the French and served to consolidate public opinion in favor of Herriot's course, bringing the people to an understanding of the great advantages they would gain by a commercial and industrial alliance with Germany.

Americans will have a vast deal to do in the operation of the Dawes scheme. Citizens of this country have been or will be named to fill the following important positions: Director of the new gold bank of Germany; agent general for reparations; permanent voting member of the reparations commission for the declaration of Germany's possible future defaults; member of a transfer committee, of which the agent general is president; unofficial observer on the reparations commission, representing Washington; arbiters for the questions of transfer of currencies and any mechanical troubles in the operation of the Dawes plan.

IT IS inevitable that the adoption of the Dawes plan should have its effects on the Presidential campaign. Both Republicans and Democrats profess to find in the results of the London conference support for their contentions concerning America's participation in foreign affairs. The view of the former may be expressed concisely and rather mildly in the words of President Coolidge:

"This is the most important result accomplished since the armistice. It demonstrates the wisdom of the American position and the effectiveness of the American method of co-operating. The end of the war has come at last and the beginning of an honorable and, we hope, a lasting peace is at hand."

John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for the Presidency, declared that the article in the plan providing for arbitration by the League of Nations in case of dispute as to the index figure of German wealth was but another evidence of the growing indispensability of the league.

LAST week was the week of the vice presidential candidates. Both Governor Bryan and General Dawes were formally notified of their nomination, the Democrats getting in first as in the case of the heads of the tickets. Bryan in his acceptance speech at Lincoln, Neb., praised his party's platform as "broad, strong and progressive enough to justify the support of those who believe in equality before the law." He touched on many questions but paid special attention to agriculture, accusing the Republican party of having changed the farmer's condition from prosperity to adversity. He promised the farmer a reduction of tariff rates to enable him "to buy in a competitive market at home and remove the restrictions which have injuriously affected the foreign market in which he sells his surplus products."

Without specifically mentioning Defense day, he took a whack at it by depicting war propaganda, mobilization, demonstrations of civilian and industrial resources as a "great economic waste, misleading and unnecessarily inflammatory."

GENERAL DAWES, in the presence of an immense throng at his home in Evanston, Ill., declared that this campaign is a campaign of domestic issues, and after discussing the League of Nations and the world court he entered on a fiery discussion of what he declared to be the most important of the domestic questions—"the formidable attack which has been launched on the fundamental principles of our Constitution." This, of course, meant LaFollette, his candidacy and his aims, and the speaker did not mince words in denouncing the Wisconsin senator.

"Robert M. LaFollette," he said, "leading the army of extreme radicalism, has a platform demanding public ownership of railroads and attacking our courts which are a fundamental and constitutional safeguard of American liberties."

"Our nation is asked to leave important constitutional moorings to embark again into those contests through which it has fought up to the establishment of good government. Through the War of the Revolution, through the Civil war and the World war, our people have struggled to maintain our constitutional principles."

"They are asked to follow behind an aggressive personality, who has misused behind him a heterogeneous collection of things opposing the existing order of things, the great confusion of which, the Socialists, fly the red flag, and into what? Into confusion and conflict of ideas and into the reopening of war upon those same fundamental principles of liberty and the inalienable rights of man which are giving in this country, safety and opportunity to the humblest, and to establish which the blood of our forefathers was shed. This is the predominant issue in this campaign."

From the LaFollette-Wheeler headquarters in Chicago came this sole comment:

"Mr. Dawes in his acceptance speech violates the law which prohibits the use of the flag for advertising purposes. He maintains his standing as a proffer in patriotism. The law will prevent printing pictures of Coolidge and Dawes on the American flag as a campaign banner, but they might appropriately raise a black flag bearing a four-leaf clover and an oil-can rampant."

Governor Bryan said: "The more Mr. Dawes speaks, the happier the Democrats will be. He is exhibit A of what reactionary policies mean."

SENATOR JONES of New Mexico, chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, does not see how his party can lose in November. He calls attention to the fact that 27 of the states have Democratic governors, and that seven other states elected Democratic senators in 1922. These states have 940 votes in the electoral college and only 238 votes are necessary to a choice. All of which does not seem to disturb the confidence of the Republican managers. This confidence was reinforced last week when a large number of prominent labor leaders conferred with National Chairman Butler in Chicago and assured him that a considerable number of the men in their unions would support the Republican ticket, refusing to be delivered to the LaFollette-Wheeler candidacy.

HAVING waited in vain for the harbor at Angmagssalik, Greenland, to be clear of ice, the American globe-encircling aviators decided last week to fly from Reykjavik, Iceland, to Fredericksdal, near Cape Farewell on the southern tip of Greenland. They made one false start, both planes being broken, and then on Thursday they made the jump of about 825 miles, the longest of their tour. With them was Lieutenant Locatelli, the Italian, who had flown alone from Pisa and caught up with them on Iceland. The Americans landed all right, but at this writing the Italian is missing.

Last week the ZR-5, the huge Zeppelin which Germany has been building for the United States, was completed and its 14 gas chambers filled with hydrogen gas for the trial trip. It is believed the airship will be ready for the flight across the Atlantic about the middle of September, but this may be delayed until October 5.

SERIOUS damage to crops and property has resulted from the unusually heavy rains that have fallen in the Mississippi river valley. Northern Illinois, southern and western Wisconsin and parts of Iowa suffered the most. The corn in some sections was nearly ruined. Roads and bridges were washed away, motor camps were wrecked and wind and lightning worked havoc.

TELESCOPES all over the world are turned just now on Mars, which is nearer the earth than he has been since 1804 or will be again for many years. The distance between the planets Saturday night was only 34,500,000 miles. Astronomers hoped to gain further knowledge concerning the nature of the so-called canals, and a few even had in mind the possibility of communicating with the red planet by radio.

AN ODD situation has arisen in Peking from the efforts of Karahan, the new Russian ambassador to China, to recover possession of the Russian legation property there. According to the protocol of 1901, all foreign legation compound properties in Peking are under control of the diplomatic corps members. As acting head, the American minister refused to turn the Russian legation over to the Soviet ambassador except on certain conditions and then only with the understanding that such action did not constitute recognition of the Soviet by the United States. Karahan has refused to accept the conditions, and the various governments concerned are wondering what to do next.

LE BARON B. COLT, Republican, United States senator from Rhode Island, died on Monday at the age of seventy-eight years. His term would have expired next March and he was a candidate for re-election. The Democrats believe they now have an even chance to gain this senate seat.

Another who passed away last week was Miss Lucy Page Gaston of Chicago who for many years had devoted herself to the crusade against cigarettes. Before her death she named G. Henri DeRouche as her successor in that work.

FIERCE fighting has been going on in Trans-Jordan between the government troops and the Wahabhs, who do not recognize the rule of Emir Abdullah, second son of King Hussein of the Hedjaz. The Wahabhs seized several towns, including Tarasch, but the government forces in a counter-attack drove them out, killed 300 and took many prisoners.

The treaty would serve as a basis to further relationships with other countries, would help consolidate the international situation of Russia, affirming at the same time the principles of the Bolshevik revolution. He attached great importance to the fact that a capitalist country had agreed to guarantee a loan to Russia, which should be considered as backing up the credit of the Socialist federation.

DR. D. S. O'CONNOR VETERANS' FRIEND

Veterans of the World war who have suffered as a result of having been gassed, blinded, crippled or afflicted with tuberculosis or other ills while in the service have a staunch friend in Dr. Denis S. O'Connor of Waterbury, Conn. In recognition of his splendid work in their behalf Doctor O'Connor has just been appointed vice chairman of the American Legion rehabilitation committee in the Second district, including the states of New York, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Needs of these disabled men have been a constant care of Doctor O'Connor. His first active work in their behalf was as a member of the relief and service committee of Corporal Coyle post of Waterbury. In that capacity he got an insight at first hand into what he believed to be gross injustices in the treatment of the men by the United States veterans' bureau.

He had spent much time and effort in fighting through claims which had been rejected, as he thought, unjustly, by the veterans' bureau. In 1923 he was elected service officer of his post. His efficient and self-sacrificing work in that position led to his recent appointment.

Doctor O'Connor was instrumental in having introduced into congress a bill to allow former service men who develop insanity or tuberculosis a longer period in which to file claims for government compensation and care than was then allowed. This object was attained by the passage of the Reed-Johnson bill at the last session of congress.

Hailing from Bliddeford, Me., Doctor O'Connor is a graduate of the high school there. After attending the University of Maine and Bowdoin College he graduated from Bowdoin medical school in 1910.

He had sought admission to the Plattsburg training camp. He was refused a recommendation for admission because he had already specialized training in medicine. He was told to continue that work. He then enlisted in the naval reserve force. Before he was called to the colors he was sent by the United States health service into northern Maine to fight the influenza epidemic which was raging there.

After completing his work in Maine he reported at the First Naval district headquarters at Boston and was sworn into service. He was ordered to Portland, Me., where he was released from active service in December, 1918. He was commissioned a lieutenant, junior grade, in the medical corps of the navy in December, 1922.

Legionnaire Finds Home For Post in Iowa Town

American Legionnaire H. H. Studley of Cumberland, Iowa, plus an idea, plus the initiative to carry that idea into effect is the combination responsible for the stability and rapid growth of the Cumberland post of the Legion. Legionnaire Studley who, when not engaged in doing most of the town's banking, is busy looking about for some way to improve the local American Legion post, observed the difficulty of holding a post together without clubrooms. He looked about the town and found a basement that was large and had the potentiality of a fine clubroom. He donated his overalls and after two days hard labor had the room all painted and ready for meetings. The post now has a rapidly increasing membership, whereas a few weeks ago it was about to disband.

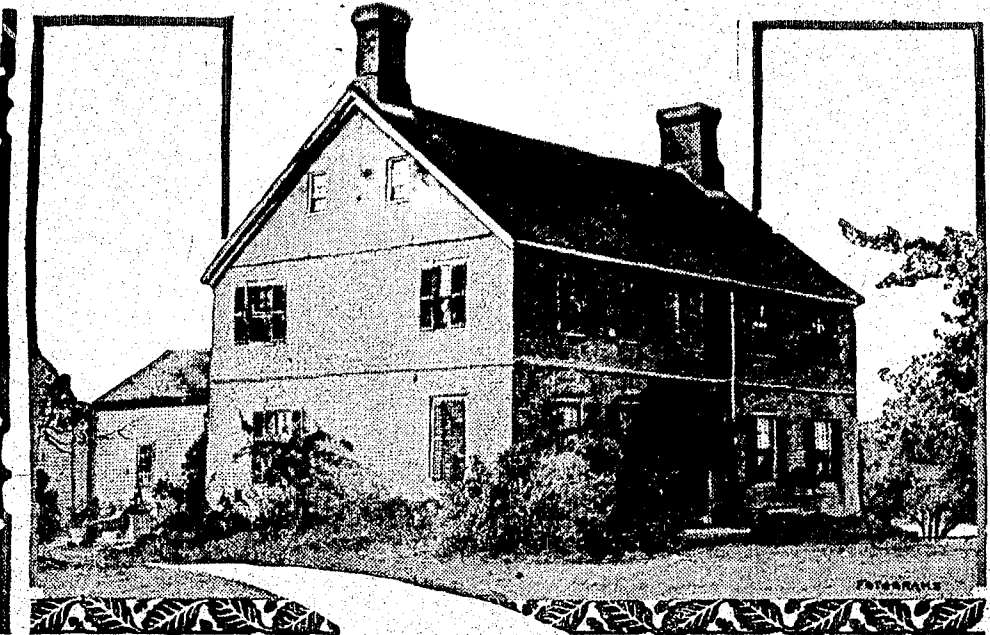

Fine Membership Record

The Elmer Wilson American Legion post of Corwith, Iowa, recently announced a paid-up membership of fifty-five members out of a possible fifty-eight in the district. The entire population of Corwith is only seven hundred.

DRAGON FLY'S BOAST

"It amuses me," said the Dragon Fly to Billie Brownie.

"I am glad it does," said Billie Brownie, "for it is always nice to hear of creatures being amused, but I am sure I do not know what it is that amuses you."

"You know you haven't told me."

"You have simply told me a number of times that 'it amuses you.'"

"True," said the Dragon Fly, "I haven't told you. But I will."

"Good," exclaimed Billie Brownie.

"Yes," continued the Dragon Fly, "I will explain what it is that amuses me, and I boast about it, too. I can't help boasting a little, and I hope you will forgive me."

"Oh, that's all right," said Billie Brownie. "I suppose all of us boast a little at times, some more than others. And some more often than others."

"Even when some will say that they never boast, they are boasting a bit."

"For they are boasting of the fact that they do not boast."

"But pray explain yourself, Dragon Fly."

"It is about airplanes," began the Dragon Fly. "They are a wonderful invention, of course."

"I often think to myself that if I were a person I would certainly want to go up in one. I wouldn't be happy walking along the ground, as they spend so much of their time in doing."

"I don't wonder that they look up when they see airplanes and that they admire them."

"I can easily understand all that. It takes no effort for me to understand their admiration of airplanes."

"If I were always on the ground I would look up at those in the air, and would say how wonderful the airplanes looked."

"It seems only natural to me to see people looking up at those great big human birds swooping along and flying through the air."

"As long as people haven't wings themselves airplanes are the next best thing."

"Now, my wings aren't like the wings of an airplane, but it amuses"

"me when I think of how proud they are of their airplanes and that they cannot do something I can do."

"What is that?" asked Billie Brownie.

"I'm coming to that, I'm coming to that," said the Dragon Fly.

"Pray pardon me if I seem impatient to hear," said Billie Brownie.

"Certainly," said the Dragon Fly. "I like to have an interested listener. It would not be very nice if you began to talk about something else."

"If such a thing happened I would feel that I had bored you and had not made myself interesting."

"Yes, it amuses me that people cannot do what I can do. No matter how I drop to the ground or even if I am dropped, my body always rights itself."

"I never drop any other way."

"Now airplanes don't do that. They go down head first and make poor landings, or they have accidents which make them land in frightful condition."

"But not so with Mr. Dragon Fly. Always, always, always my body rights itself."

"And what particularly amuses me," continued Mr. Dragon Fly, "is that the people have tried everything in the world to make their airplanes do just this, and though they have studied our wings and the way we act, they cannot accomplish this fact."

"They have tried and tried and tried. To me it is so easy a thing. They can watch me all they want. They can copy anything I do and there will be no objection raised."

"But they can't accomplish this—they haven't been able to as yet at any rate."

"And I can't help boasting about this, Billie Brownie. Really and truly I can't help boasting just a little."

"I don't blame you for boasting," said Billie Brownie. "I really don't."

OSTRICH IMPORTANT FEATURE; CLOTH FOR SCHOOL AND OFFICE

A UTUMN millinery makes its appeal for the picturesque through a lavish use of ostrich. Contributing to the importance of ostrich is the fact that very same, the ostrich look lovelier. This revival of the ostrich look is like meeting a friend long since thought departed. Yet here it is, the feather boa, as charming and alluring as in the days of the sometime past.

"They say" that, while we are initiating the season with bows of ordinary engaged in the pursuit of practical affairs. Every foregrounding of fall styles prominently features handsome cloth gowns which are a revelation of clever styling and of which the frock in the picture is a representative type. In the very simplicity of its detail, and the girliness of its tailored lines collar and cuffs it seems to say "all ready for school." Just as admirably suited to office is it. In fact it is the type which makes appeal to every woman for daytime wear. One of length, later when the social season is on, bringing its occasion for extreme dressiness we may expect to see worn ostrich bows which reach almost to the ground. They are to be colorful, too, specializing two and three-tone effects, for so it is written in fashion's foreword.

Milliners are enthusiastically responding to the call of the mode, for a conspicuous use of ostrich. Exploitation of ostrich takes form in long graceful plumes which sweep their loveliness from crown of hat to shoulder depth. It is the gorgeous three-toned brown ostrich plume which gives an air of distinction and a portrait of artistry to the little satin hat in this the most fashionable cloths of the season is hair-line striped, and it is this material which lends itself so admirably to the making of this frock. Note the interesting yoke, the perky belt and buckle, the effective use of buttons at neck and across the pocket. The straight, often belted silhouette is the prevailing theme throughout the cloth dress collections now on display. Often these slenderizing models are developed in handsome soft flannels in very new colorings, russet being a favorite shade. It is predicted that dark brown and purple will court favor this season. Brick, rust and beige are also included in the list of popular colors, with a sustained inter-picture. An ostrich boa completes this handsome millinery ensemble.

The elegant model to the lower right of this trio of ostrich trimmed hats is fashioned of black velvet with a semi-facing of delicate pink. Long willow-tied fringes of ostrich are knotted into an effective under-brim trim.

Between layers of malines are variegated wisps of ostrich placed in the chapeau illustrated to the lower left in the group. The crown is black velvet and the ostrich fringe ornament is in soft oriental colorings.

To be in fashion one must dress in cloth of quality kind this season, with charm enhanced by perfection and exquisite refinement of detail. Which decree of the mode coincides most accommodatingly with the requirements of business women, schoolgirls and all of the fair sex.

Perfume Container Is Popular as Accessory

Since perfume has become universally popular, containers are now reckoned among the accessories of a costume, and are designed in many ingenious and artistic forms. From the appearance nowadays of the ornament that is attached pendant from a woman's necklace, it is impossible to tell whether it is for embellishment only or for a more practical purpose. Among the pretty imported trinkets shown are small, delicately fashioned lavallieres of enamel or gold in a perforated design, an oriental trinket which holds a wee vial of perfume, giving out a steady fragrance without danger of staining the gown.

New Two-Piece Frock

For the little figure, slim as a match, graceful as a feather in the wind, there's nothing better than one of the new two-piece tunic frocks with a long, straight top and a skirt joined to a lining.

DAIRY FACTS

CAREFULLY SELECT DAIRY HERD SIRES

Ninety-five per cent of the men who buy herd sires wait until they need one, then rush out to buy one ready for service. They don't know it, but they are following beaten paths. The successful breeder selects his herd sire when the general demand is lightest. As a result he gets a better bull at a lower price, says J. P. LaMaster, chief of the dairy division at Clemson college.

Some people have potatoes to sell in the seasons when potatoes are high in price. Some people have real estate to sell when the demand is greatest. But the ordinary man has potatoes to sell when prices are low, and is burdened with real estate because he can't sell it. The reason is that the ordinary man follows the beaten path. The other fellow finds out what people are doing generally and he does something else. He puts in more potatoes after a year when they don't sell, simply because he knows most of the others won't do that. He buys real estate just when almost everybody else wants to get rid of his; and he buys a herd sire during the season when demand is lowest.

This is practically all the difference between "just ordinary existing" and getting ahead. You can find out to which class you belong by asking yourself this set of questions:

When will I need a new herd sire?

Let us suppose you will need a new one before next March.

When will I look up a herd sire?

(If your answer is, "Oh, next fall when I'm not so busy," you belong to the "beaten-path" gang.) You will start out just when 95 per cent of the breeders start, you will buy one of the "left over" bulls and you will pay all the bull is worth.

Now you have your choice between a great many good bulls. All these will be gone before fall to the successful 5 per cent. If you say, "I'm too busy now," you are following beaten paths. If you sit down this very day and line up your next herd sire, you can depend upon it, you will buy a better one than the luckiest member of the "beaten-path gang" will ever see.

Care and Attention Is Essential for Ringworm

The following is reported as a good cure for calves with ringworm: Wash the parts with strong soap and water to remove as much as possible of the crusts or scabs and, when dry, rub the spots with some of the following ointment: Flowers of sulphur, two ounces; oil of creosote, two drams; prepared lard, four ounces. This ointment should be applied each morning and evening. Painting the affected parts with tincture of iodine on alternate days is also very effective, but this agent should not be applied near the animal's eyes. The woodwork and the walls of the shed in which these calves are housed should be painted with hot lime wash, to which has been added a couple of ounces of crude carbolic acid. With a little care and attention one should soon get rid of the trouble.

Easiest Way to Dehorn

Is by Applying Caustic

The easiest and most really painless way to dehorn is to use caustic potash on the young calves. This caustic should be applied on the buttons where the horns come out by the time the calves are a week old. The hair should be cut around the buttons and the skin around the horns rubbed with vaseline to prevent the caustic from burning. The stick of caustic is wrapped with paper to prevent it from eating the fingers, one end of the stick is moistened in water and rubbed on the horns until they become white. The caustic should not be wet enough so it will run down on the calf's head or into its eyes. This treatment will kill the horns, stopping further growth.

Clean Vessels and Warm

Milk of Big Importance

A good rule to go by is never to feed a calf out of a pail you would not drink out of yourself or feed her any milk you would not be willing to drink. Feed the milk as warm as fresh milk from a cow. Keep the pens dry after calf has had her milk. After the heifer is weaned then it is well to put some oil meal into the grain mixture. A good mixture much used is:

- 300 pounds wheat bran.
- 300 pounds cornmeal.
- 300 pounds ground oats.
- 100 pounds oil meal.

This is particularly desirable to use after weaning.

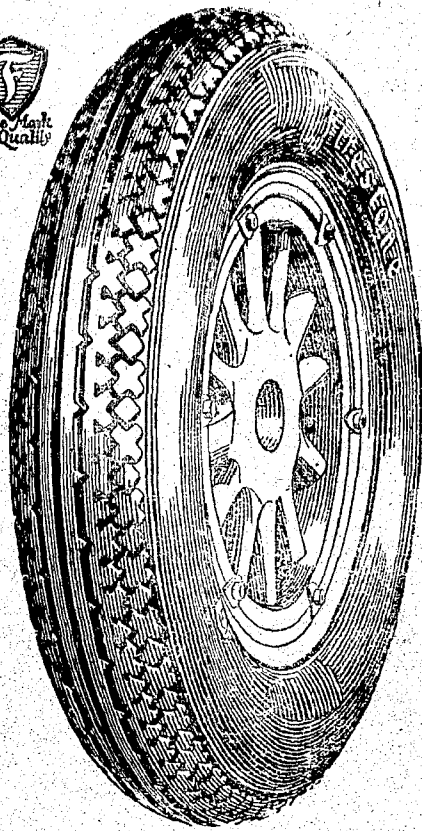

Cause of Bad Flavors

Bad flavors in cream and dairy products are usually caused by carelessness in the care of the milk. If a little dirt falls in the milk it becomes contaminated with bacteria which gives it bad flavors and if the milk is allowed to stand around the barn awhile before taken to the house and cooled it will often take on a bad flavor. The feeding of some sort of succulent feed will often help to overcome this; roots, cabbage, and silage are good.

Farm Butter Sells Low

What is the explanation of why farm butter sells at such a low price? There are several reasons. Much of it is of very poor quality and lacks uniformity. The consumer knows that he is sure of quality in creamery butter. Farm butter possesses poor keeping quality. It must be consumed while quite fresh or it becomes strong. As a result of this lack of quality much farm butter finds its way to the process butter factory.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

R. D. BAILEY
County Agricultural Agent

Every Farmer Invited.

Every farmer in the county is urged to take a look at the State Experimental Farm at Grayling right away, before the second growth of alfalfa is cut, or the second growth of sweet clover is plowed under all of which will happen the latter part of the first week in September. The farm is only five minutes drive from the main street of Grayling. It will pay anyone to drive down. Go past the front of the flooring mill, and the brick house on the county farm, and you are there.

You will see a sight that ought to encourage any discouraged farmer. You will not see just a little patch of alfalfa as large as a door yard. You will see acres of it grown on soil that is lighter than any of you are farming. Just notice the soil outside the fence and see how light it is. The farm is in a corner, a black cinder road on one side gravel road on the other. Better drive down both. Why come to town after year and not take five minutes to drive to see something that ought to interest and help any farmer? When looking at it don't kid yourself by saying "Yes I could do that if I had the whole state back of me." Some will foolishly say so.

The truth is that we have spent very little money there, excepting for labor which the farmer would not hire. This farm is not supported by your taxes.

Take a look at it before we cut the crops.

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will now receive for registration the name of any legal voter in Grayling Township up to and including August 30th.

If you prefer to register with the deputy registration clerk Mrs. A. McKone you may do so during Library hours, Tuesday and Thursday nights from 6 to 8 P. M. and on Saturdays.

Strain Too Great

Hundreds of Grayling Readers Find Daily Toil a Burden.

The bustle and worry of business men,

The hard work and stooping of workmen,

The women's household cares, often weaken the kidneys.

Backache, headache, dizziness, kidney troubles, urinary troubles—frequently follow.

Read the following and learn the way to find relief:

Walter Fisher, lumberman, Gaylord, Mich., says: "Heavy lifting put my kidneys in bad shape. Mornings when I got up, my back felt stiff, lame and sore. At times, I was weak and when I stooped and tried to straighten, severe pains caught me in my back. I felt stiff all over and could hardly move. I was so dizzy I couldn't see and my kidneys were in a poor condition. I had to get up often, nights and the secretions were scanty and often filled with a dark sediment and burned in passage. I used Doan's Pills and several boxes cured me."

The Schools and The Railroads

Teachers in Michigan's primary schools are being supported, to a large degree, by taxes paid by the state's steam Railroads. In many counties, the whole cost of these schools is carried in this way.

Michigan is justly proud of these schools, and of the capable teachers who preside over them.

And Michigan's 24 Railroads are proud of the result which their tax payments have made possible.

These primary school taxes have become a part of the delicate balance which laws have established between Railroad receipts and expenditures.

This balance can be preserved with a steady and continued improvement in Railroad service, as the past two years have amply proved.

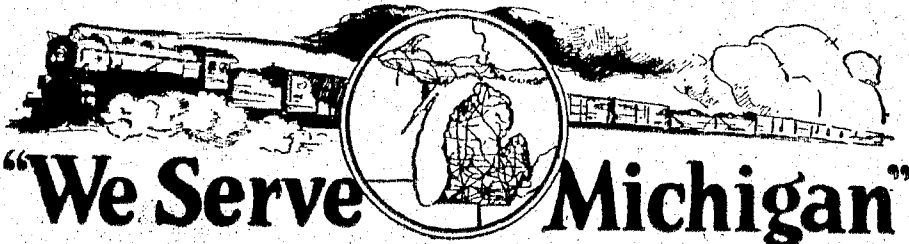

To destroy this balance by increasing Railroad taxes, or by imposing any additional burden on your carriers, would be a calamity for the Railroads and a severe blow at Michigan prosperity.

All we ask is a fair chance to keep on making good for you.

Write us freely about any phase of this matter that interests you.

NASH HAS MUCH TO BRAG ABOUT.

The Nash Motors Company, Kenosha, Wisconsin celebrated its 8th anniversary the sixteenth of this month. Added interest invests the event since it follows hard on the heel of the tremendously successful introduction of two entirely new lines of six-cylinder cars and at a time when the Company is at the peak of its eight years progress. Though considerably the youngest of ten great automobile companies credited with building 85 per cent of the country's total annual output The Nash Motors Company is today on a production scale almost half again as large as the entire volume of the industry in 1917. In reviewing the record of the Company President C. W. Nash pointed with pride to the fact that although the start was made August 16, 1916, scarcely six months prior to our entrance into the world war, nevertheless the company's advancement during the elapsed eight years has been one of the most brilliant in American industrial annals. "Our output the first fifteen months," said Mr. Nash, "was 12,179 cars and trucks as contrasted with a production the eighth year of close to 57,000. Value of the volume in dollars and cents for this year was four times as great as that of the initial 15 month period. Another way of illustrating the size to which Nash annual business has grown is by contrasting it with the figures for Canada. For example the total value of all motor cars built in Canada in 1917 was about 10 per cent less than the value of the Nash output for its eighth year in business. A glance at the payroll record provides another dramatic picture of the rapidity with which The Nash Motors Company has forged to the front rank of the country's largest employers. Our first year we had 3,125 men while today there are nearly 7,200 men employed. In 1916 one plant was occupied with an area of approximately 103 acres and with 1,353,000 square feet of floor space under roof. Today three great plants are necessary to cope with the growing demand for Nash cars. The first financial statement of the Nash Motors company showed total resources of $7,000,000 while today the figure has swelled to nearly $42,000,000. All told during these eight years there have been built more than 250,000 Nash cars and trucks with an aggregate value rising to $310,000,000.

"At the time The Nash Motors company made its bow to the world there were about 220 other companies engaged in manufacturing automobiles. Many of these had been in business for a number of years. But so swiftly has public preference developed for the Nash product that year upon year has seen Nash outstripping older concerns until today it ranks ninth among the 67 companies now in business. This remarkable rise is even more significant when you recall that these past eight years have been beset by more difficulties, owing to the great war and the chaotic conditions which prevailed following the armistice, than any similar period since the very inception of the automobile industry."

ELECTION NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that a General Primary Election will be held in the town hall in Grayling, in the township of Grayling, on Tuesday, Sept. 9th, 1924, for the purpose of placing in nomination by all political parties participating therein, candidates for Senatorial, State, Congressional, Legislative and County offices. The City of David Prof. R. A. S. Macallister, describing recently the work carried on in the eastern hills to the south of Jerusalem, said that there was no doubt evidence of the occupation of the site by men of prehistoric time. They had, however, discovered the bottom portions of the walls of the city that David had taken from the Jebusites. Although it was not wise to theorize before the work was completed, they had found indications that pointed to a spot in the northern wall being that which David breached when he took the city, subsequently screened with a wall that he built to cover the damage, and finally properly repaired by Solomon.

A strong bastion, with walls over twelve feet thick, indicated that it might be the tower from which the Jebusites mocked David, saying that only blind men and cripples would be necessary to hold the walls against him. The excavations also had brought to light other things which illustrated or amplified Biblical references to David. The work was as yet far from complete, only about an acre of ground having been taken, but sufficient had been done to show very attractive possibilities in its completion.

As She Understood It

After the usual Saturday romp the children gathered in the drawing room for some music.

As bedtime drew near the mother said: "Now, children, choose a hymn to finish up with and then you must all say good night."

"Let's have 'Ere Again Our Sabbath Close,'" said a little girl of seven.

"Well, I think that would be more suitable for tomorrow night," replied the mother.

"Oh, but you always air our Sabbath clothes on Saturdays," said the child.
